VETERANS HERE BY THOUSANDS

Eighteen Thousand Arrived on Sunday. Trains Pouring in Many More To-day. Camp Hot by Day and Cold by Night. News Notes.

Eighteen thousand veterans from every section of the United States, from as far west as Oregon, as far north as Maine and as far south as Texas, suffered through the heat of Sunday and then shivered through the cold of the morning hours to-day. Only one blanket was issued to each on Sunday, but a duplicate issue is promised for to-night.

The first of the old soldiers to arrive came from the far west, Michigan, Oregon, California and Missouri all sending scores of veterans here for the encampment. All day long the trains poured their hundreds into the camp and by night-fall the number estimated under canvas was 18,000. To-day this was swollen to about 32,000, with more coming in every hour.

General Daniel E. Sickles, ninety-two years old, minus one leg and very feeble, arrived Sunday evening and was taken to the Rogers House along the Emmitsburg Road, where the members of the Third Corps will have their headquarters. He is taking delight in meeting many of his old command.

Scenes at the big camp were numerous and varied. Many of the veterans came into the encampment like a lot of boys out for a picnic. Laughing and chatting as they found their tents, calling and slapping each other on the back they frolicked about until they became weary and then sat down to talk over incidents of the war.

Others came in after their long journeys, thoroughly tired and in many cases well-nigh exhausted. They found the camp hot, they were confronted with some "difficulty" in finding their quarters, everything seemed unattractive and, until they were well settled, they were thoroughly miserable. All finally got fixed for the night and everything went well until the early morning hours, when they awoke to find that the heat of Sunday had changed to a damp cold which permeated everything. They had rolled up the sides of their tents to allow ventilation and, having but one blanket, they were soon decidedly uncomfortable. In many instances they had retired over-heated and it is feared that numerous colds may develop among the visitors as a result.

The camp itself, now well occupied, is a scene that almost defies description. Every street has its hundreds of veterans, many of them tottering and feeble, others strong and hearty, but all bent on talking over the stirring times of '63, enjoying the pleasant features of the arrangements in the camp and getting through the difficulties as best they can.

Sunday evening saw the first general opening of the camp kitchen and long lines of the old soldiers appeared for their rations. To each was issued plate, knife, fork and spoon and, as he went past the tables in the camp kitchen, he was issued his evening meal, which consisted of beef steak, tomatoes, potatoes, bread and coffee. There are comparatively few tables in the camp and, taking their plates, the soldiers would find a box or anything else they could get to sit on and there, discussing old times, would enjoy their supper. Immediately after the evening meal another line was formed for the issue of blankets and several hundred in each line waited their turn as the Regular Army men passed out their portion.

From the observation towers and other points of vantage over the field many persons viewed the camp on Sunday afternoon and during the evening. The smoke from the field ranges, and from the places where refuse was burned, floated over the whole field and, with the thousands of tents and the figures of the soldiers walking about through the streets, made a remarkable spectacle. In the evening the camp illumination was beautiful as ever.

One of the most interesting arrivals during the day was a trainload of veterans from Virginia. Practically every one of the men wore the gray of the Confederacy and they were given a rousing welcome when they arrived at the camp site. Residents of Springs Avenue waved a welcome to many of the trains as they came in.

On Saturday an interesting occurrence took place at the Western Maryland depot when eight Virginians stepped from the train. As they reached Carlisle street, the crowd formed two lines and made the men in gray shake hands with many of them before they could proceed.

THERE will be a meeting of the Biglerville Library Association at its rooms Monday evening at 8:00. All members requested to be present. advertisement. 1

ACCIDENTS AND DEATHS IN CAMP

Several Veterans Answer their Last Roll Call on Gettysburg Battlefield. Trolley Road Had Smash-up on Sunday Morning.

Augustus D. Brown, of Livermore Falls, Maine, died suddenly from apoplexy Sunday afternoon within an hour after arriving on a special train from New England. Mr. Brown, a veteran, died on the way to the field hospital. The body was prepared for burial and held awaiting word from his home. The death was the first among the old soldiers here for the reunion. He was 71 years old.

John H. Reynolds, of Port Chester, New York, was found dead in the New York camp Sunday evening about eight o'clock by his comrades. An ambulance was summoned, but the man was past aid. He was aged 69 and a member of Charles Lawrence Post 378, of Port Chester. The body was removed to the temporary morgue pending advice from his home.

Struck By Runaway. The first serious accident of the encampment occurred about half-past ten Sunday morning when a horse and surrey, without a driver, ran down Chambersburg street when it was badly congested with traffic. One wheel was taken off of another surrey in its course and at the Eagle Hotel corner the horse, which was traveling at great speed, struck John Collins, of Elmira, N. Y., a veteran, throwing him to the ground with terrific force and causing very severe injuries about the face and head.

Mr. Collins was taken to the pavement and given first aid by a number of Boy Scouts and was later removed to the State Hospital, where he has been in a serious condition ever since. He could doubtless have gotten out of the way of the horse, but he became confused when he saw it coming and was caught before he could save himself.

Trolley Accident. About eight o'clock Sunday morning two trolley cars met head-on at the sharp curve near Plum Run, resulting in slight injuries to five persons and considerable damage to both cars. Edgar Deardorff, motorman on the out-bound car, set his signals properly at the Wheat Field and the safety switch near Plum Run and then proceeded. When he had gotten well towards the end of the curve he was met by an in-coming car in charge of Motorman Steinour. Mr. Deardorff reversed his car and then jumped, saving himself from possibly serious injury. Those injured were: A. M. Garnett and C. H. Garnett, brothers, of Pittsburgh; John G. Yerkes, of York, Pa.; and Otto Michell, colored, of New-York; and Motorman Steinour.

The five hurt received only minor injuries, with the exception of a veteran, who had his back strained when he was thrown forcibly against the seat. All were given attention at the State hospital.

Heat Prostrations. Fifty heat prostrations were reported on Sunday among the veterans. A number of other cases, not heat prostrations, were given attention at the camp. From one New York train seven veterans dropped from exhaustion as soon as they got out of the cars. There were no serious cases and many of those treated at the hospitals gave evidence of the patients being more confused than ill.

WOMAN LOST. Came Here with Father, and Whereabouts are Now Unknown.

Mrs. Lena Robson, of Abilene, Kansas, came to Gettysburg with her father, arriving here Sunday night about 9:30. When they left the train at camp the father and daughter became separated and the latter has not been heard from since. The father is Joseph C. Seaton and is located at Tent 234, E. 10th street, where his daughter should go immediately and relieve his anxiety. The daughter is described as a woman about 30 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, brown hair, dark eyes, wearing brown skirt, white waist and a hat. The matter has been put in the hands of the State Constabulary.

WILSON TO BE HERE FRIDAY

President Changes his Mind and will Visit Gettysburg Anniversary Celebration for Several Hours on Friday, July Fourth.

President Wilson has reconsidered his decision about not visiting Gettysburg during the celebration and will be here on July Fourth for a few hours. He will arrive in the morning at eleven o'clock. Whether or not he will deliver an address it is not announced and it is also not announced whether there will be any exercises on the Fourth.

Ever since Mr. Wilson was first invited to come here special efforts have been made to secure his attendance, but he announced definitely several weeks ago that he would be unable to be here. It was stated at that time that he would be at his summer home in New Hampshire for a week's rest. His determination to attend no public celebration during the first year of his presidency was given as the reason for his declining to come to Gettysburg.

More recently he has found that the duties of his office would compel him to give up the New Hampshire trip and late Saturday his decision to come to Gettysburg was announced in Washington. It is said that it was only after the most urgent persuasion that Mr. Wilson agreed to come here.

As it is, the President will visit Gettysburg for only a few hours and, up to the present time, no arrangement for an address has been made.

BOUGHT HIS UNIFORM

Steelton Veterans Purchase Uniform For Johnny Reb.

At Gettysburg this week with the "boys in blue" from Sergeant Lascombe Post No. 351, of Steelton, is one gray-haired and bent old "boy" who is wearing the uniform of gray. He is John McClellan.

The uniform of gray was presented by Sergeant Lascombe Post, G. A. R. The local veterans took up a subscription among themselves to buy this uniform for their comrade in gray.

Not only will the aged McClellan be proud of his new uniform when he meets long-parted comrades of the gray, but he will proudly discuss his great record as a soldier. He claims to be the only survivor of the Merrimac and says he was on that ship in the historic engagement with dimirative iron-sided Monitor. He recalls clearly that stirring incident of the war and tells a vivid account of it.

McClellan also claims to be a veteran of two wars, the Crimean and Civil. He tried to enlist in the Spanish war, but was debarrd on account of his age.

PLACING FLAGS

United States and Pennsylvania Flags in the Cemetery.

An unusually pretty sight may be seen in the National Cemetery where every grave is being decorated with two flags, one of the United States and the other of the State of Pennsylvania. The flags are crossed and the whole arrangement makes a decidedly more beautiful scene than the usual Memorial Day decoration of the Stars and Stripes. The flags are said to be the gift of the Anniversary Commission, while the work is being done by Major E. W. Pearce, of Harrisburg, assisted by D. E. Locke, of Titusville.

LEVI HARMAN. Straban Township Resident Died at his Home on Thursday.

Levi Harman died at his home, near Golden's Station, Straban township, Thursday, from a complication of diseases. His age was about 80 years. He is survived by two sons and two daughters and one brother, Walter Harman, residing at New Oxford. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon, services and interment at Salem church, near his late home.

MANY REUNIONS DURING WEEK

Regiments and Brigades will Have Numerous Reunions in the Big Tent during this Week. Mornings for these Affairs.

While scores of regimental reunions are to be held at various points of interest on the battlefield during the coming week a long list of similar celebrations have been arranged for the big assembly tent where the main exercises will take place every afternoon from two to five o'clock. This tent is sufficiently large to be subdivided into twenty-five sections and will be used in the mornings for these reunions:

Tuesday, July 1st: 10th New York Cavalry Veterans' Association. Army and Navy Medal of Honor Legion. Sixth Pennsylvania Reserves, 121st Pennsylvania Volunteers, 3d Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, 104th New York Regiment Association. 2nd Pennsylvania Veteran Heavy Artillery, 142nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, 107th Ohio Volunteers Infantry, 6th Pennsylvania Cavalry, 3rd Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery and 188th Pennsylvania Regiment, 153d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, 121st New York Volunteers' Association, 43rd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers. National Association of Naval Veterans, 6th New York Cavalry, Knapp's Battery, 28th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers and 147th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers: Prisoners of War.

Wednesday, July second: 10th New York Cavalry Veterans' Association, 22nd Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, Ringgold Battalion, 2nd New York Mounted Rifles, 49th Pennsylvania Volunteers, 44th New York Veterans' Association, 111th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, 143d Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, Northwestern Association, Department of Pennsylvania; 107th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 14th New York Heavy Artillery Veterans, Vermont Cavalry Reunion Society, 1st Michigan Infantry, Regimental Association, 6th Maine Infantry, 12th New Jersey Volunteers, 5th Pennsylvania Reserves, Indiana Veterans, 122nd Pennsylvania Volunteers, Kearney's First New Jersey Brigade Association, 11th Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, 45th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, 46th Pennsylvania Infantry.

Thursday, July third: 10th New York Cavalry Veterans' Association, Army and Navy Medal of Honor Legion, Philadelphia Brigade Association, 18th Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, 99th Pennsylvania Volunteers, 3d New York Cavalry, 16th Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, United States Veterans Signal Corps, 1st Regiment East Shore Maryland Volunteers, 62nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, Union Veterans Legion, 11th New York Cavalry Association, Old Bucktails, 1st Rifles Regiment P. R. V. Corps, 6th United States Cavalry, 145th New York Volunteer Infantry, 95th New York Volunteers, 139th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers' Association. Old Vermont Brigade, 53d Regiment Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers' Association, 14th Pennsylvania Cavalry.

In addition, the First Pennsylvania Reserves will hold their reunion in the tent on Wednesday afternoon and New York Day will be celebrated with an elaborate program in the tent at half-past four Thursday afternoon. The 6th United States Cavalry will have another celebration on the afternoon of the Fourth. The survivors of the 115th Pennsylvania Volunteers have announced their reunion at the regimental monument on Little Round Top on the afternoon of July 2nd, after the exercises in the main tent.

GENERALS IN CAMP

Two Confederate Generals Prefer Camp Life to Luxury.

Among the guests of honor to arrive at the college on Sunday were General Felix Robertson, of Texas, and General A. J. West, of Atlanta. After seeing the fine preparations at the institution, all the comforts in the way of rooms and dining hall, the two Confederates decided that they would prefer to stay with their men in the big camp and share whatever of pleasure or discomfort was to be found there.

AUTOMOBILES will be stored during the anniversary on the race track ground under guard at fifty cents a night.—advertisement 1

PIKES OPENED FREE OF TOLL

From Bedford to Littlestown, through Gettysburg, now Free of Toll Charges. Special Action to Relieve Anniversary Visitors.

Free toll went into effect Sunday night at one minute after twelve o'clock, on the turnpike from Gettysburg to Bedford and from Littlestown to Gettysburg. This means no tolls from Pittsburgh to Gettysburg, for there has been no toll collected on the other side of Bedford for some time.

This was agreed upon Saturday morning in Chambersburg by counsel representing the State Highway Department and the turnpike roads, although the latter could have held back the operation of the law for ten days on the pike concerned in the case just decided by the Supreme Court and the Chambersburg Turnpike Company eastward could have delayed proceedings until the Highway Department took its final legal steps. However, all concerned, J. A. Strite, Esq., T. B. Kennedy, Esq., their attorneys, and others waived all rights and agreed to stop collecting tolls with midnight on Saturday.

This result is due more to Hon. E. M. Bigelow, State Highway Commissioner, than to any other person. He went on his way, doing his work and the result will mean tens of thousands of dollars to automobile drivers and those using teams on the pikes crossing the length of our State from Pittsburgh to the world's greatest battlefield.

The Supreme Court had handed down a decision ruling that the Sproul Bill and the Hoke Amendment are constitutional and of full force and effect. The opinion amply backs up the act and amendment and gives the Highway Department right of eminent domain, power to seize turnpikes, take them over, and make them free and pay such price as is decided upon by appraisement as provided in the Act.

The turnpike company sent automobiles to Gettysburg and the other direction with instructions to the toll ratekeepers as to their procedure and with directions to cease collecting tolls at midnight. It is presumed that the tollgate people will keep a record of business during the Gettysburg celebration to be used as a basis for claims for damages or for price to be paid for the pikes by the State.

The State Highway Department will at once proceed to erect the iron and enameled steel signs it began placing along the pike between Bedford and Gettysburg, work on which had been stopped by the pike owners. The oiling has been done and it is likely that it will be done each year hereafter.

Counsel representing the State Highway Commissioner, the Chambersburg Turnpike Road, the Gettysburg and Petersburg Turnpike Road Company, gave out this statement relating to the collection of tolls on the several turnpikes in Franklin and Adams counties. The papers presented to Judge Scope on the 17th of June were marked filed. All the gate-keepers from the Fulton-Bedford county line on the west to the Maryland line, about two miles south of Littlestown on the east, were instructed by the officials of the several companies to open their gates Saturday night and take no further tolls. Sunday morning saw the road toll free for a distance of about seventy-five miles.

GAVE THEM PAROLE

Hunting "Boys" Who Stopped Gordon in 1863.

J. H. Woodridge, adjutant of the 11st Georgia, is located at Tent 3, W. 36th street, in the big camp, and is anxious to meet any of the Gettysburg boys still living who met Gordon's Brigade of Infantry when they marched into Gettysburg on the evening of June 27. The boys were all held over night and then put on parole, Mr. Woodridge issuing their parole papers.

GOVERNORS HERE

Governors of Western States Arrive for the Celebration.

The following governors have arrived for the celebration: G. W. Clark, of Iowa; L. B. Hanna, North Dakota; Francis E. McGovern, Wisconsin; John K. Tener, Pennsylvania; S. M. Ralston, Indiana. All but Governor Ralston are at college. Mr. and Mrs. Ralston are at the City Hotel. Senators Penrose, Nelson, Clark, and Oliver are also at college.

Beginning to-day the fare between Caledonia and Gettysburg on the auto bus will be $1.00. It had been $2.00. At the reduced fare the C. & G. trolley company expects greater patronage for the bus.—advertisement 1

It was stated at that time that he would be at his summer home in New Hampshire for a week's rest. His determination to attend no public celebration during the first year of his presidency was given as the reason for his declining to come to Gettysburg.

More recently he has found that the duties of his office would compel him to give up the New Hampshire trip and late Saturday his decision to come to Gettysburg was announced in Washington. It is said that it was only after the most urgent persuasion that Mr. Wilson agreed to come here. As it is, the President will visit Gettysburg for only a few hours and, up to the present time, no arrangement for an address has been made.

Steelton Veterans Purchase Uniform For Johnny Reb.

At Gettysburg this week with the "boys in blue" from Sergeant Lascombe Post No. 351, of Steelton, is one gray-haired and bent old "boy" who is wearing the uniform of gray. He is John McClellan.

The uniform of gray was presented by Sergeant Lascombe Post, G. A. R. The local veterans took up a subscription among themselves to buy this uniform for their comrade in gray.

Not only will the aged McClellan be proud of his new uniform when he meets long-parted comrades of the gray, but he will proudly discuss his great record as a soldier. He claims to be the only survivor of the Merrimac and says he was on that ship in the historic engagement with the iron-sided Monitor. He recalls clearly that stirring incident of the war and tells a vivid account of it.

McClellan also claims to be a veteran of two wars, the Crimean and Civil. He tried to enlist in the Spanish war, but was barred on account of his age.

PLACING FLAGS

United States and Pennsylvania Flags in the Cemetery.

An unusually pretty sight may be seen in the National Cemetery where every grave is being decorated with two flags, one of the United States and the other of the State of Pennsylvania. The flags are crossed and the whole arrangement makes a decidedly more beautiful scene than the usual Memorial Day decoration of the Stars and Stripes. The flags are said to be the gift of the Anniversary Commission, while the work is being done by Major E. W. Pearce, of Harrisburg, assisted by D. E. Locke, of Titusville.

LEVI HARMAN

Straban Township Resident Died at his Home on Thursday.

Levi Harman died at his home, near Golden's Station, Straban township, Thursday, from a complication of diseases. His age was about 80 years. He is survived by two sons and two daughters and one brother, Walter Harman, residing at New Oxford. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon, services and interment at Salem church, near his late home.

MANY REUNIONS DURING WEEK

Regiments and Brigades will Have Numerous Reunions in the Big Tent during this Week. Mornings for these Affairs.

While scores of regimental reunions are to be held at various points of interest on the battlefield during the coming week a long list of similar celebrations have been arranged for the big assembly tent where the main exercises will take place every afternoon from two to five o'clock. This tent is sufficiently large to be subdivided into twenty-five sections and will be used in the mornings for these reunions:

Tuesday, July 1st: 10th New York Cavalry Veterans' Association, Army and Navy Medal of Honor Legion, Sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers, 121st Pennsylvania Volunteers, 3d Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, 104th New York Regiment Association, 2nd Pennsylvania Veteran Heavy Artillery, 142nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, 107th Ohio Volunteers Infantry, 6th Pennsylvania Cavalry, 3rd Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery and 188th Pennsylvania Regiment, 153d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, 121st New York Volunteers' Association, 48th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, National Association of Naval Veterans, 6th New York Cavalry, Knapp's Battery, 28th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers and 147th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; Prisoners of War.

Wednesday, July second: 10th New York Cavalry Veterans' Association, 22nd Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, Ringgold Battalion, 2nd New York Mounted Rifles, 49th Pennsylvania Volunteers, 44th New York Veterans' Association, 111th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, 143d Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, Northwestern Association, Department of Pennsylvania; 107th Ohio Volunteer Infantry, 14th New York Heavy Artillery Veterans, Vermont Cavalry Reunion Society, 1st Michigan Infantry, Regimental Association, 6th Maine Infantry, 12th New Jersey Volunteers, 5th Pennsylvania Reserves, Indiana Veterans, 122nd Pennsylvania Volunteers, Kearney's First New Jersey Brigade Association, 11th Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, 45th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, 46th Pennsylvania Infantry.

Thursday, July third: 10th New York Cavalry Veterans' Association, Army and Navy Medal of Honor Legion, Philadelphia Brigade Association, 18th Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, 99th Pennsylvania Volunteers, 3d New York Cavalry, 16th Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, United States Veterans Signal Corps, 1st Regiment East Shore Maryland Volunteers, 62nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, Union Veterans Legion, 11th New York Cavalry Association, Old Bucktails; 1st Rifles Regiment P. R. V. Corps, 6th United States Cavalry, 145th New York Volunteer Infantry, 95th New York Volunteers, 139th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers' Association, Old Vermont Brigade, 53d Regiment Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers' Association, 14th Pennsylvania Cavalry.

In addition, the First Pennsylvania Reserves will hold their reunion in the tent on Wednesday afternoon and New York Day will be celebrated with an elaborate program in the tent at half-past four Thursday afternoon. The 6th United States Cavalry will have another celebration on the afternoon of the Fourth. The survivors of the 115th Pennsylvania Volunteers have announced their reunion at the regimental monument on Little Round Top on the afternoon of July 2nd, after the exercises in the main tent.

GENERALS IN CAMP

Two Confederate Generals Prefer Camp Life to Luxury.

Among the guests of honor to arrive at the college on Sunday were General Felix Robertson, of Texas, and General A. J. West, of Atlanta. After seeing the fine preparations at the institution, all the comforts in the way of rooms and dining hall, the two Confederates decided that they would prefer to stay with their men in the big camp and share whatever of pleasure or discomfort was to be found there.

PIKES OPENED FREE OF TOLL

From Bedford to Littlestown, through Gettysburg, now Free of Toll Charges. Special Action to Relieve Anniversary Visitors.

Free toll went into effect Sunday night at one minute after twelve o'clock on the turnpike from Gettysburg to Bedford and from Littlestown to Gettysburg. This means no tolls from Pittsburgh to Gettysburg, for there has been no toll collected on the other side of Bedford for some time.

This was agreed upon Saturday morning in Chambersburg by counsel representing the State Highway Department and the turnpike roads, although the latter could have held back the operation of the law for ten days on the pike concerned in the case just decided by the Supreme Court and the Chambersburg Turnpike Company eastward could have delayed proceedings until the Highway Department took its final legal steps. However, all concerned, J. A. Strite, Esq., T. B. Kennedy, Esq., their attorneys, and others waived all rights and agreed to stop collecting tolls with midnight on Saturday.

This result is due more to Hon. E. M. Bigelow, State Highway Commissioner, than to any other person. He went on his way, doing his work and the result will mean tens of thousands of dollars to automobile drivers and those using teams on the pikes crossing the length of our State from Pittsburgh to the world's greatest battlefield.

The Supreme Court had handed down a decision ruling that the Sproul Bill and the Hoke Amendment are constitutional and of full force and effect. The opinion amply backs up the act and amendment and gives the Highway Department right of eminent domain, power to seize turnpikes, take them over, and make them free and pay such price as is decided upon by appraisal as provided in the Act.

The turnpike company sent automobiles to Gettysburg and the other direction with instructions to the toll ratekeepers as to their procedure and with directions to cease collecting tolls at midnight. It is presumed that the tollgate people will keep a record of business during the Gettysburg celebration to be used as a basis for claims for damages or for price to be paid for the pikes by the State.

The State Highway Department will at once proceed to erect the iron and enameled steel signs it began placing along the pike between Bedford and Gettysburg, work on which had been stopped by the pike owners. The oiling has been done and it is likely that it will be done each year hereafter.

Counsel representing the State Highway Commissioner, the Chambersburg Turnpike Road, the Gettysburg and Petersburg Turnpike Road Company, gave out this statement relating to the collection of tolls on the several turnpikes in Franklin and Adams counties. The papers presented to Judge Swope on the 17th of June were marked filed. All the gate-keepers from the Fulton-Bedford county line on the west to the Maryland line, about two miles south of Littlestown on the East, were instructed by the officials of the several companies to open their gates Saturday night and take no further tolls. Sunday morning saw the road toll free for a distance of about seventy-five miles.

GAVE THEM PAROLE

Hunting "Boys" Who Stopped Gordon in 1863.

J. H. Woodridge, adjutant of the 31st Georgia, is located at Tent 3, W. 36th street, in the big camp, and is anxious to meet any of the Gettysburg boys still living who met Gordon's Brigade of Infantry when they marched into Gettysburg on the evening of June 27. The boys were all held over night and then put on parole, Mr. Woodridge issuing their parole papers.

GOVERNORS HERE

Governors of Western States Arrive for the Celebration.

The following governors have arrived for the celebration: G. W. Clark, of Iowa; L. B. Hanna, North Dakota; Francis E. McGovern, Wisconsin; John K. Tener, Pennsylvania; S. M. Ralston, Indiana. All but Governor Ralston are at college. Mr. and Mrs. Ralston are at the City Hotel. Senators Penrose, Nelson, Clark, and Oliver are also at college.

Beginning to-day the fare between Caledonia and Gettysburg on the auto bus will be $1.00. It had been $2.00. At the reduced fare the C. & G. trolley company expects greater patronage for the bus.—advertisement. 1

WORK OF LOBBY IS EXPOSED

Manufacturers' Agent Accuses Many Prominent Men.

A STORY OF CORRUPTION

Baltimore Politician Declares Huge Sum Was Spent to Corrupt Voters. Attempt to Bribe Samuel Gompers Failed.

Washington, June 30.—Further sensations in the senate lobby investigation were foreshadowed when it became known that a subpoena had been served upon Martin M. Mulhall, of Baltimore, reported to have been for many years the active "field agent" and lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mulhall, whose expose of the work of the lobby was published in the New York World, told the story to that paper for $10,000.

Here and there in the statement of the self-proclaimed corruptionist are accusations of astonishing hypocrisy against widely known men. He says, for example, that in 1908, when James E. Watson, running for governor of Indiana, was making radical temperance speeches and denouncing all drinkers, Watson slipped into his room at the Claypool hotel in Indianapolis and drank six cocktails that Mulhall had ordered and placed in a closet for him, so that not even a bellboy would be the wiser. Previously and subsequently the manufacturers made large presents of cash to Watson.

Mulhall also says that ex-Representative Littlefield, another strong temperance advocate, won in the Second Maine district in 1906 by making the Democrats so drunk they couldn't get to the polls, the money being supplied by the manufacturers.

Mulhall charges also that Representative McDermott, of the Fourth Illinois district, elected as a labor union spokesman, was always in the pay of the manufacturers, and that the beef and other trusts supplied the cash for him to win campaigns.

Mulhall maintains that former Representative Gardner, of New Jersey, was a victim of the manufacturers, and that Governor Fort helped in the action against Gardner which made Gardner friendly to the manufacturers.

The informer gives also a long list of names of men who were helped or beaten for office. He thinks that he spent not less than $200,000 in corrupting voters and in doing lobby work for the manufacturers.

Mulhall says that he began to lobby for the National Manufacturers' association in November, 1902. He was employed and put to work by Marshall Cushing, the then secretary of the manufacturers. Cushing was then "doing business," says Mulhall, with Senator Proctor, of Vermont; Speaker Cannon and James S. Sherman and was visiting representatives and senators by night. The first big job Mulhall had was in beating Senator McComas, of Maryland, for re-election. McComas had fought for an eight-hour bill.

Mulhall relates that Mr. Van Cleave met Senator Foraker, of Ohio, and Representative Sherman (later vice president) at the Waldorf in July, 1907, and that "Mr. Van Cleave was satisfied that those men would take care of the interests of the manufacturers. Senator Aldrich was also supposed to be working for the manufacturers.

Mulhall then sets out that the manufacturers collected money from all the trusts, oil, wire, tobacco, etc., to carry on its operations, and that James A. Emery was chief counsel and chief lobbyist. About that time, the summer of 1907, Van Cleave had several schemes to strike at the American Federation of Labor and to assist the manufacturers. One was to raise $1,500,000 for a publicity campaign. Another was to bribe Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. A Mr. "X" was sure that Gompers could be netted. Mulhall argued against it, but found Van Cleave obstinate. The plan was to offer $40,000 and permanent employment in government service abroad to Gompers. Gompers, however, was wary. He had arranged a counter plan to trap Van Cleave. When the latter got wind of this the whole matter was dropped.

FAMILY OF SIX ARE SLAIN WHILE ABED

Bodies of Farmer, Wife and Four Children Cremated.

Columbus, S. C., June 30.—The John D. Jacobs, a farmer, who lived near Peak, Lexington county, and his wife and four children were murdered their house being afterward set on fire to hide the crime, was the conclusion reached by the coroner's jury at an inquest.

A milkman discovered smoke issuing from a grove where the Jacobs home stood. Investigating, he found the house almost destroyed and several charred bodies in the ruins.

The inquest disclosed that Jacobs his wife, his daughter, Ellie, aged twenty-three, and three sons, aged eighteen, fourteen and ten years, were all dead. The bodies of all except that of the oldest son, Leslie, were found lying in their beds, as if they had been murdered while they slept.

The body of Leslie was found before the fireplace, with a shotgun beside it. A gun was also found beside the charred body of Mr. Jacobs and an ax near the body of another of the boys.

The skulls of Mrs. Jacobs and the daughters were crushed as if by a heavy blow, and blood was found beneath the other bodies. The mattress upon which the youngest boy lay was soaked with blood.

No arrests have been made and the authorities have no clues.

DOG MANGLES LITTLE GIRL

Breaks From Owner and Attacks the Child as She Leaves Water.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 30.—At tacked by a ferocious bulldog while bathing at Somers Point, Nettie Ayde lotte, twelve years old, was so mutilated that it is feared she will die.

The dog, held in leash by John Charles, a playmate, attacked the girl as she left the surf, tearing loose from its youthful owner, and not until it was attacked with a base ball bat by Peter Schwartz did it release its grip on the child.

Suffering from terrible injuries extending from her left ankle to her waist, the girl was hurried to her home, where she was attended by Dr. Steelman, of Linwood. Her father procured a shotgun and killed the animal shortly afterward. The child's condition is precarious.

Pana, Ill., June 30.—Bert W. Brown, a Pana printer, received word that he would be given about $500,000 of an estate left by the late Mordecai Price of Baltimore, when the estate is settled, on Aug. 14. Brown is one of the twenty-eight central Illinois heirs and a great-great grandson of Price.

Rooster Attacks Babes.
South Norwalk, Conn., June 30.—Mabel, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Griener Lent, of this place, was attacked and knocked down by a vicious rooster, and her brother, one year her senior, who went to her rescue, had one eye pecked out and the other one seriously injured.

An experiment that was made last year in the village of Miltonvale, Kan., is worth copying by others. Briefly the scheme referred to was a co-operative silo, which was built jointly by six owners of single family cows. These householders, who prized fresh milk, but despaired of getting it without using silage as a ration, hit upon the plan of joining hands in the enterprise. This was carried out, and a silo 12 by 31 feet was built and corn from a nearby field brought to fill it. The backers of the enterprise after one season's experience believe they have solved the feed problem for the dairy cow so far as they are concerned. This year they plan to co-operate in the growing of the corn they need for silage purposes. Why isn't this plan good for other folks?

Feed For Nursing Sows.
The fastest and cheapest gains are made on a pig before weaning time, so ordinarily it will pay to keep young pigs coming. The sow should, of course, get some good milk producing feed. Bran, ship stuff, some corn, alfalfa meal, linseed oil meal and skim milk are all good. As far as cheapness of feeds goes, corn and linseed oil meal or corn and tankage are two ration as good as any. The following chart has given very good results. Shorts, 25 per cent; corn meal, 40 per cent; bran, 25 per cent; tankage, 10 per cent.

THE NEED FOR NARROW ROADS

Twenty-five Feet Ideal Width For Country Highways.

SAVE TIME AND MONEY.

Would Mean the Abolition of Weeds. One of Farmers' Greatest Road Nuisances—United States Might Learn a Lesson From France.

There is rarely any necessity for allowing a greater breadth than twenty-five feet for the entire strip occupied by any country road, ditches included. In the residence districts of many of our great cities, where from fifty to a hundred feet were formerly given up to a broad, unsightly expanse of pavement apart from the sidewalks, the pavements that covered much of the width have been torn up and replaced by grass, leaving a roadway for vehicles often only twenty feet wide. Why should not a width which answers all purposes in the city answer also in the country?

We read much about the good roads of France, claimed to be the finest in the world. Yet Americans touring that country in automobiles are astonished to find that they are usually, including ditches, only twenty-five feet wide—often only twenty feet—the ad-

GOOD TYPE OF THE WIDE ROAD. Joining farms being cultivated close up to the line. Why not learn a lesson from France?

A road sixty-six feet wide represents the appropriation of one acre of land for every 600 linear feet of road, or eight acres to the mile. A road twenty-five feet wide, on the other hand, requires only one acre for every 1,742 linear feet of road, or about 3.03 acres to the mile. Here is a saving of nearly five acres of land, worth from $20 to $150 an acre, by the adoption of the narrower width. It is only where deep cuts or high embankments occur or in crossing swamps that a greater width than twenty-five feet is necessary, and it by no means follows that because the strip is wider at its whole length. The saving in the cost of construction by adopting a width of twenty-five instead of sixty-six feet would not be proportionately as great as the saving in land, but it would probably be at least 20 or 25 per cent, and the saving in the cost of maintenance would be very nearly or quite one-half. This would mean a tremendous reduction in road taxes.

Added to these gains is another, by no means to be despised when considering the advantages of the twenty-five foot road. This would come from the elimination of the highway as a breeding ground for weeds. The whole twenty-five feet being improved, there would be no space left for weeds, and a perennial nuisance, costly to the whole farming community, would be abolished.—Agricultural Magazine

Cumulative Value of Good Highways.
Improved roads are breeders of traffic. Commerce invariably follows the line of the least resistance, and rarely is a good road constructed that much travel is not diverted to it from other courses. In addition to this, it may almost invariably be found that new industries, new and greater productions, spring up along the well built roads. With the added commerce comes added enlightenment, added stability, enlarged business and more and more developed and perfected citizenship.

Progress in Argentina.
The Argentine Touring club has decided to award a special gold medal annually to the landowner in the province of Buenos Aires who plants the most trees at the sides of the public highways. The trees may be fruit or forestal, and instructions and advice concerning planting may be had from the Touring club.

The Dog in the Manger.
The incompetent, shiftless, worthless political road official is the fellow who opposes better road legislation. If he wants to hold such a position then why can't he think, study and qualify himself under a new road law and be a man? Conversions along this line can occur in warm as well as cold weather.

A VICTORIOUS BULGAR
By F. A. MITCHEL

Eight years ago I, a globe trotter, having visited every other known part of the globe, concluded to have a look at the Balkans. The Balkan peninsula is seldom visited by tourists, so I found it difficult to secure information how to get there, but I persevered and finally reached Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria. From there I made excursions through the country, familiarizing myself with the people.

I found the first of them Mohammedan and Christian the same as it had been for so many generations. The Bulgarians were then getting ready to rise against their masters, and the spirit of resistance was rife.

I was one evening at a small inn, where there were a number of Turks and Bulgarians in the same room playing cards, though the two races did not mingle in the same game. A conversation occurred in the Turkish language between a Bulgarian and a Turk sitting at different tables, which I did not understand, though I could see by their demeanor that they were at enmity. When the Turk had finished his game he left the inn accompanied by the other Turks. The Bulgarian went on playing for awhile; then he, too, left.

Curious to know what had been going on between these two, each of whom was a fine specimen of a man, I asked the host in German, since he spoke that language. He told me that the Turk was at the head of a band who had for some time made their headquarters in the town, terrorizing everybody in it and in the vicinity. They would make raids and return laden with plunder. Thus far no force of Christians had dared to drive them out. It seems that the Bulgarian had challenged the Turk to fight him single handed. The Turk had at first declined, but the Bulgarian had so goaded him that he had consented.

It had been agreed between them that they should meet the next morning. There was one main street in the place, running north and south. The Bulgarian was to start at a certain hour at one end of the street and the Turk at the other end. Each was to be armed with the short rifle used in the country, but which in this country would be called a carbine. Either could fire at the other on sight or whenever he pleased.

There was a feature of the affair of which I was not informed at the time. A number of Bulgarians had bound themselves to expel the Turkish robbers. It would be a great advantage to them to get rid of their leader before beginning the attack. The Bulgarian who had been selected to attempt this was famous for his marksmanship. It was hoped that he would succeed, and if he did there would be little difficulty in annihilating the men.

In the morning I arose at daylight and put my head out of the window. So far as I could see, the houses on either side of the street were lined with heads at the windows to see the fight. It was not long before I saw at either end, a distance of a mile apart, a single man in the middle of the street carrying his weapon. As soon as they saw each other they began to advance slowly, holding their weapons so as to bring the butt to the shoulder quickly. The Bulgarian wore the costume of his country, while the Turk wore the baggy trousers and sleeveless jacket in which he is usually pictured.

While the two men were drawing within range of each other I cast an occasional glance into the faces of those who were leaning out of the windows beside and opposite me. They were all Christians and on every face was intense anxiety. It was plain to see that their hope was in the man who was about to do battle for them. If he killed the other their oppressors might be exterminated; if the other killed him the yoke would be fastened on them firmer than ever. The issue might be decided by a single shot.

Before it seemed that they were within range the Bulgarian raised his rifle to his shoulder. If it was a ruse to induce his enemy to waste a shot it failed, for the Turk did not change the position of his gun, which he held close under his chin. The Christian, however, held his rifle at his shoulder, and as he now was much nearer to me than the Turk I could see by his face that he was calculating distance. But he was so far from his enemy that no one supposed that a bullet could be relied on to do its work at such a distance.

But suddenly his rifle cracked and a puff of smoke emanated from its muzzle. When I looked away from him to his enemy I saw him lying in the street. A Turk was running toward him. In a moment he or his lifeless body (for he had been shot through the head) was encircled by every member of his band. From up the street near the fallen Turk came a whistle, and I saw shots fired from the windows at the robbers. The victorious Bulgarian ran by like a shot, and from houses along the street poured men who had bound themselves to annihilate the Turkish band.

It was a hard fight, in which a number of Christians were killed and wounded before the last robber was dispatched. Then the people of the town turned out into the street shouting, laughing, dancing, throwing up their caps and embracing one another while down the street, carried on the shoulders of his fellows, was the man who had rendered the victory possible.

When so many grateful citizens of Gettysburg testify to benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, can you doubt the evidence? The proof is not far away—it is almost at your door. Read what a resident of Gettysburg says about Doan's Kidney Pills. Can you demand more convincing testimony?

Mrs. M. A. Gilbert, 128 W. Middle St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I have had no need for Doan's Kidney Pills since I used and publicly recommended them some years ago. They are the best kidney remedy to use. My health was all run down owing to disordered kidneys. I didn't have much of an appetite and couldn't sleep well. My back and head ached and I had dizzy spells and chills. Whenever I caught cold I felt worse. One of my relatives advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got some at the People's Drug Store. It didn't take this remedy long to remove my trouble."

For twenty years I suffered from eczema. My skin would break out and itch and burn terribly. I heard of Saxo Salve and decided to try it. After two or three applications I found great relief and before I had used one tube I was completely well. If it will benefit others who suffer from eczema you may publish my letter, as I believe Saxo Salve will do just what you claim it will."—A. Pritchett, Shelbyville, Ill.

It is astonishing, even to us, to see how Saxo Salve, our new remedy for skin affections, allays the itching, softens, soothes and heals the skin in all sorts of eruptive disorders, such as eczema, barber's itch, ringworm, tetter, etc.

It is guaranteed to help you—we cheerfully give back your money if it does not. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

P. S. If you are weak and run down, no strength, no appetite you need Vinol. We guarantee it.

GIVES HIS LIFE TO SAVE BROTHER

Stick in Mud While Bathing and One Drowns.

Woodbury, N. J., June 30.—George Lawson, aged nineteen years, was drowned in Mantua creek at Mount Royal, and his brother, Elliott Lawson, aged twenty-three years, had a narrow escape from the same fate. The latter was saved because his brother gave him assistance until help came and then sank out of sight.

Both young men went in bathing off the new bridge and were having a gay time until both became fascinated in the mud. Both men were excellent swimmers and have been disporting themselves almost every evening during the warm weather.

The men had been in the water for about fifteen minutes. Elliott was the first to become fastened in the mud, and George swam to his assistance. When he found it was impossible to get out they called for help.

Charles Blensinger, a farmer, who lives nearby, ran to their assistance. He succeeded in rowing a small boat out to them, and Elliott was pulled into the boat. George then sank, and it was an hour before his body was recovered.

Men rushed to the scene and after an hour's hard work Elliott was revived. When he was pulled ashore it was thought that he was dead, but it was found that his heart was beating a little and intense work began.

JACK JOHNSON SAILS

Negro Pugilist Leaves Montreal For Havre, France.

Montreal, Can., June 30.—Jack Johnson sailed by the Allan line "Corinthian" for Havre on Sunday from this port.

His departure was watched by representatives of the immigration department, who, had he not sailed, were prepared to arrest him, pending deportation proceedings, as an undesirable alien.

There were, however, no unexpected developments. His wife sailed with him. Their baggage consisted of eighteen large trunks and valises. He had also a limousine and a touring car embarked on the steamer.

There was much disgust among the other cabin passengers at Johnson being allowed to travel with them, but it is understood that his meals will be served to him in his stateroom.

SEEK MISSING CHILD

Secret Kept a Week in Hopes of Capturing Culprits.

Glassboro, N. J., June 30.—It became known here that a posse of farmers has been scouring the countryside for a week in search of Edith Peterson, the twelve-year-old daughter of a Monroeville farmer, who is believed to have been kidnapped by two half-breed Indians.

The Indians have been working in the vicinity of Glassboro and disappeared along with the girl about a week ago.

The matter was kept secret in the hope of capturing the culprits. Failure to land them, however, caused the Salem county authorities to be called into the case.

Mother Kills Daughter.

Ogden, Utah, June 30.—The nude body of a twelve-year-old girl was found in a trunk at the Union station, and later Mrs. Augustus Ekman, of Salt Lake City, the mother, confessed to having killed her daughter. She is under arrest with C. L. Anderson, her former husband. While Mrs. Ekman says she chloroformed the girl, physicians assert that the child was choked to death. The woman declares she committed the crime because the girl was on encumbrance and she could not take care of her.

Falls Dead Waiting With Husband. Altoona, Pa., June 30.—Mrs. Frank Crist, thirty-three years old, fell dead while dancing with her husband at the Fraternal Order of Eagles' new home. It is believed that the intense heat and the exertion, coupled with a weak heart, combined to cause her sudden death.

SHIELD MAN FOR DEATH OF GIRL

Big Official of Salisbury Gas Company Suspected.

JURY WON'T PLACE BLAME

Much Pressure Is Being Brought to Bear to Hush Up Death of Miss Wainwright.

Salisbury, Md., June 30.—The most powerful political organization influences in Maryland are being brought to bear for family reasons to absolve the man or men to whom evidence points as accomplices in the death here of Miss Florence Wainwright, through an illegal operation.

The effects of these forces are already evident in the perfect assurance with which those interested declare that the coroner's jury, which finished taking testimony, will implicate no one in the girl's tragic end.

Coroner Charles Covington said: "The jury stood 10 to 2 for holding a man who is a gas company official and who saw Miss Wainwright not very long before she died."

In the face of this State's Attorney George W. Bell declared: "The jury will either disagree or bring in a verdict implicating no one when it reconvenes."

Bell also said that he took J. Leonard Wallis, attorney for the Home Gas company, in whose office the girl died, into the case as his assistant at the urgent request of a high official of the gas company and a man of great power in the whole section.

The fact that F. Leonard Wallis, attorney for the gas company, was sworn in as assistant state's attorney and practically conducted the examination, has aroused a storm of adverse criticism.

In view of these statements it is being recalled by many indignant townspeople, including prominent ministers, that Harold Smith, manager of the gas company, was marked by testimony at the inquest as being the last man to see Miss Wainwright alive.

It is further recalled that Smith is a cousin of United States Senator William P. Jackson, president of the gas company. Smith is highly connected in other ways, being a first cousin by marriage of Mayor Preston, of Baltimore.

The secrecy of the inquest proceedings has apparently thwarted its own ends and only made the popular demand for the exposure of the men who brought the Wainwright girl to her death or an operation, performed according to the testimony, without knowledge or proper instruments, and so brutal as to almost insure a fatal ending.

The secrecy and the exclusion of the newspaper correspondents have caused a great deal of comment in the entire state. The action is said to be without a precedent in the eastern section of the United States.

There are at least six persons in Salisbury upon whom suspicion rests and who can never hold up their heads again till they have either been cleared or condemned by a full exposure.

Two of these persons are gas company officials, another is a married woman, a fourth a wealthy business man, whose name was unfavorably linked with that of the dead girl a few years ago; another a country doctor, and the sixth a prominent drug store. Some of these, who feel confident of their innocence, are taking a lead in demanding that the investigation be pushed.

In spite of the pledges of secrecy everything that transpired was fairly well known and the demand was more urgent than ever for justice to be done on the gas company official with influential friends.

Only the promise of the state's attorney to send detectives and to take the case before the grand jury if the present proceedings fall flat, as now seems likely, can placate the quickly organized movement of citizens to take the law into their own hands.

The inquest showed that Miss Wainwright's death was not due directly to the operation, but was caused by the effects of it upon her heart and nervous system.

Turned on Steam Heat.

Dukuh, Minn., June 30.—Smoke rolling from big building smokestacks spoke eloquently of a resumption of steam heating Saturday—the coldest June day in twenty-eight years. Street thermometers registered as low as 4 degrees at 9 a. m., but warmed up to 45 at nine o'clock. Pedestrians wore last winter's overcoats and men and women in automobiles snuggled down in furs.

Bryan Extends Treaties.

Washington, June 30.—The special arbitration treaties of the United States with Japan, Sweden and Portugal, which would have expired by limitation within the next month, were extended by protocols signed by Secretary Bryan, the Japanese ambassador and the Swedish and Portuguese ministers.

Little Bather Drowns in Mill Pond. Elmer, N. J., June 30.—Joseph, the eight-year-old son of George Rogers, was drowned while bathing in the millpond at Daretown. The little fellow got into too deep water and went down with no one near to aid him.

BLIND HORSES TO MAKE THEM DOCILE

Cruel European Practice in Use in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 30.—Reports from humane societies in Chicago to the effect that horses were being blinded by foreigners in that city to break them of shyness and make them docile, caused the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to make an investigation in Philadelphia, which has thus far resulted in the startling discovery that many horses, perhaps thousands, have been similarly abused in Philadelphia. The horses found to have been maltreated in this manner were in most cases those of foreigners serving huckster routes, who require a quiet horse. In all cases the owners of the animals denied any knowledge that their horses were blind.

The manner in which the sight of the horses was destroyed, it is said, is by running a small needle into the retina of their eyes. The wound made is almost imperceptible and can only be seen by an expert on close examination.

The practice is said to have been introduced into this country within the last year, and the directors of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have offered a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest of the culprits.

LIGHTNING BROILS STEAK

Kills Woman, But Finishes a Job She Had In Hand.

Carnegie, Pa., June 30.—Lightning played a peculiar as well as a fatal prank here, when it struck the chimney of Henry Waters' house, on the Steubenville pike, and after running down the chimney to the kitchen range, killed Mrs. Waters and broiled a steak which she was putting on the broiling irons at the time.

Mrs. Waters had picked up the steak, walked over to the kitchen range and laid it on the irons. She was evidently about to light the natural gas burner, when a terrific peal of thunder shook the house, and the lightning zig-zagged down the chimney. Every stitch of clothing was burned from Mrs. Waters' body. The steak was broiled perfectly by the lightning flame.

Fired Nine Bullets to Kill Himself. Yonkers, N. Y., June 30.—Committing suicide with a revolver in his home here, Carl H. Nyström, a machinist, fifty-seven years old, fired nine shots before he succeeded in ending his life. Five of the bullets from his pistol were embedded in the wall and ceiling, three lodged in his abdomen and the ninth was fired into his mouth.

The matter was kept secret in the hope of capturing the culprits. Failure to land them, however, caused the Salem county authorities to be called into the case.

Mother Kills Daughter.

Ogden, Utah, June 30.—The nude body of a twelve-year-old girl was found in a trunk at the Union station, and later Mrs. Augusta Ekman, of Salt Lake City, the mother, confessed to having killed her daughter. She is under arrest with C. L. Anderson, her former husband. While Mrs. Ekman says she chloroformed the girl, physical asserts that the child was choked to death. The woman declares she committed the crime because the girl was an embarrassment and she could not take care of her.

Falls Dead Waiting With Husband.

Altoona, Pa., June 30.—Mrs. Frank Crist, thirty-three years old, fell dead while dancing with her husband at the Fraternal Order of Eagles' new home. It is believed that the intense heat and the exertion, coupled with a weak heart, combined to cause her sudden death.

SHIELD MAN FOR DEATH OF GIRL

Big Official of Salisbury Gas Company Suspected.

JURY WON'T PLACE BLAME

Much Pressure Is Being Brought to Bear to Hush Up Death of Miss Wainwright.

Salisbury, Md., June 30.—The most powerful political organization influences in Maryland are being brought to bear for family reasons, to absolve the man or men to whom evidence points as accomplices in the death here of Miss Florence Wainwright through an illegal operation.

The effects of these forces are already evident in the perfect assurance with which those interested declare that the coroner's jury, which finished taking testimony, will implicate no one in the girl's tragic end.

Coroner Charles Covington said: "The jury stood 10 to 2 for holding a man who is a gas company official and who saw Miss Wainwright not very long before she died."

In the face of this State's Attorney George W. Bell declared: "The jury will either disagree or bring in a verdict implicating no one when it reconvenes."

Bell also said that he took J. Leonard Wallis, attorney for the Home Gas company, in whose office the girl died, into the case as his assistant at the urgent request of a high official of the gas company and a man of great power in the whose section.

The fact that F. Leonard Wallis, atorney for the gas company, was sworn in as assistant state's attorney and practically conducted the examination, has aroused a storm of adverse criticism.

In view of these statements it is being recalled by many indignant townspeople, including prominent ministers, that Harold Smith, manager of the gas company, was marked by testimony at the inquest as being the last man to see Miss Wainwright alive.

It is further recalled that Smith is a cousin of United States Senator William P. Jackson, president of the gas company. Smith is highly connected in other ways, being a first cousin by marriage of Mayor Preston, of Baltimore.

The secrecy of the inquest proceedings has apparently thwarted its own ends and only made the popular demand for the exposure of the men who brought the Wainwright girl to her death by an operation, performed according to the testimony, without knowledge or proper instruments, and so brutal as to almost insure a fatal ending.

The secrecy and the exclusion of the newspaper correspondents have caused a great deal of comment in the entire state. The action is said to be without a precedent in the eastern section of the United States.

There are at least six persons in Salisbury upon whom suspicion rests and who can never hold up their heads again till they have either been cleared or condemned by a full exposure.

Two of these persons are gas company officials, another is a married woman, a fourth a wealthy business man, whose name was unfavorably linked with that of the dead girl a few years ago; another a country doctor, and the sixth a prominent drug gist. Some of these, who feel confident of their innocence, are taking a lead in demanding that the investigation be pushed.

In spite of the pledges of secrecy, everything that transpired was fairly well known and the demand was more urgent than ever for justice to be done on the gas company official with influential friends.

Only the promise of the state's attorney to send detectives and to take the case before the grand jury if the present proceedings fall flat, as now seems likely, can placate the quietly organized movement of citizens to take the law into their own hands.

The inquest showed that Miss Wainwright's death was not due directly to the operation, but was caused by the effects of it upon her heart and nervous system.

Turned on Steam Heat.

Duluth, Minn., June 30.—Smoke rolling from big building smokestacks spoke eloquently of a resumption of steam heating Saturday—the coldest June day in twenty-eight years. Street thermometers registered as low as 4 degrees at 6 a. m., but warmed up to 45 at nine o'clock. Pedestrians wore last winter's overcoats and men and women in automobiles snuggled down in furs.

BLIND HORSES TO MAKE THEM DOCILE

Cruel European Practice in Use in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 30.—Reports from humane societies in Chicago to the effect that horses were being blinded by foreigners in that city to break them of shyness and make them docile, caused the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to make an investigation in Philadelphia, which has thus far resulted in the startling discovery that many horses, perhaps thousands, have been similarly abused in Philadelphia.

The horses found to have been maltreated in this manner were in most cases those of foreigners serving huckster routes, who require a quiet horse, in all cases the owners of the animals denied any knowledge that their horses were blind.

The manner in which the sight of the horses was destroyed, it is said, is by running a small needle into the retina of their eyes. The wound thus made is almost imperceptible and an only be seen by an expert on close examination.

The practice is said to have been introduced into this country within the last year, and the directors of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have offered a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest of the culprits.

LIGHTNING BROILS STEAK

Kills Woman, But Finishes a Job She Had in Hand.

Carnegie, Pa., June 30.—Lightning played a peculiar as well as a fatal prank here, when it struck the chimney of Henry Waters' house, on the Steubenville pike, and after running down the chimney to the kitchen range, killed Mrs. Waters and broiled a steak which she was putting on the broiling irons at the time.

Mrs. Waters had picked up the steak, walked over to the kitchen range and laid it on the irons. She was evidently about to light the natural gas burner, when a terrific peal of thunder shook the house, and the lightning zig-zagged down the chimney. Every stitch of clothing was burned from Mrs. Waters' body. The steak was broiled perfectly by the lightening flame.

Fired Nine Bullets to Kill Himself.

Yonkers, N. Y., June 30.—Committing suicide with a revolver in his home here, Carl H. Nystrom, a machinist, fifty-seven years old, fired nine shots before he succeeded in ending his life. Five of the bullets from his pistol were embedded in the wall and ceiling, three lodged in his abdomen and the ninth was fired into his mouth.

WORK OF LOBBY IS EXPOSED
Manufacturers' Agent Accuses Many Prominent Men.
A STORY OF CORRUPTION
Baltimore Politician Declares Huge Sum Was Spent to Corrupt Voters. Attempt to Bribe Samuel Gompers Failed.
Washington, June 30.—Further sensationalism in the senate lobby investigation was foreshadowed when it became known that a subpoena had been served upon Martin M. Mulhall, of Baltimore, reported to have been for many years the active "field agent" and lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers.
Mulhall, whose expose of the work of the lobby was published in the New York World, sold the story to that paper for $10,000.
Here and there in the statement of the self-proclaimed corruptionist are accusations of astonishing hypocrisy against widely known men. He says, for example, that in 1905, when James E. Watson, running for governor of Indiana, was making "radical temperance speeches and denouncing all drinkers, Watson slipped into his room at the Claypool hotel in Indianapolis and drank six cocktails that Mulhall had ordered and placed in a closet for him, so that not even a bellboy would be the wiser. Previously and subsequently the manufacturers made large presents of cash to Watson.
Mulhall also says that ex-Representative Littlefield, another strong temperance advocate, won in the Second Maine district in 1906 by making the Democrats so drunk they couldn't get to the polls, the money being supplied by the manufacturers.
Mulhall charges also that Representative McDermott, of the Fourth Illinois district, elected as a labor union spokesman, was always in the pay of the manufacturers, and that the beef and other trusts supplied the cash for him to win campaigns.
Mulhall maintains that former Representative Gardiner, of New Jersey, was a victim of the manufacturers, and that Governor Fort helped in the action against Gardiner which made Gardiner friendly to the manufacturers.
The informer gives also a long list of names of men who were helped or beaten for office. He thinks that he spent not less than $200,000 in corrupting voters and in doing lobby work for the manufacturers.
Mulhall says that he began to lobby for the National Manufacturers' association in November, 1902. He was employed and put to work by Marshall Cushing, the then secretary of the manufacturers. Cushing was then "doing business," says Mulhall, with Senator Proctor, of Vermont; Speaker Cannon and James S. Sherman and was visiting representatives and senators by night. The first big job Mulhall had was in beating Senator McComas, of Maryland, for reelection. McComas had fought for an eight-hour bill.
Mulhall relates that Mr. Van Cleave met Senator Foraker, of Ohio, and Representative Sherman (later vice president) at the Waldorf in July, 1907, and that "Mr. Van Cleave was satisfied that those men would take care of the interests of the manufacturers. Senator Aldrich was also supposed to be working for the manufacturers.
Mulhall then sets out that the manufacturers collected money from all the trusts, oil, wire, tobacco, etc., to carry on its operations, and that James A. Emery was chief counsel and chief lobbyist. About that time, the summer of 1907, Van Cleave had several schemes to strike at the American Federation of Labor and to assist the manufacturers. One was to raise $1,500,000 for a publicity campaign. Another was to bribe Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. A Mr. "X" was sure that Gompers could be netted. Mulhall argued against it, but found Van Cleave obstinate. The plan was to offer $40,000 and permanent employment in government service abroad to Gompers. Gompers, however, was wary. He had arranged a counter plan to trap Van Cleave. The whole matter was dropped.

FAMILY OF SIX ARE SLAIN WHILE AGED
Bodies of Farmer, Wife and Four Children Cremated.
Columbus, S. C., June 30.—The John D. Jacobs, a farmer, who lived near Peak, Lexington county, and his wife and four children were murdered; their house being afterward set on fire to hide the crime, was the conclusion reached by the coroner's jury at an inquest.
A milkman discovered smoke issuing from a grove where the Jacobs home stood. Investigating, he found the house almost destroyed and several charred bodies in the ruins.
The inquest disclosed that Jacobs, his wife, his daughter, Elsie, aged twenty-three, and three sons, aged eighteen, fourteen and ten years, were all dead. The bodies of all except that of the oldest son, Leslie, were found lying in their beds, as if they had been murdered while they slept.
The body of Leslie was found beside the fireplace, with a shotgun by his side. A gun was also found beside the charred body of Mr. Jacobs and an axe near the body of another of the boys.
The skulls of Mrs. Jacobs and the daughters were crushed as if by a heavy blow, and blood was found beneath the other bodies. The mattress upon which the youngest boy lay was soaked with blood.
No arrests have been made and the authorities have no clues.

THE NEED FOR NARROW ROADS
Twenty-five Feet Ideal Width For Country Highways.
SAVE TIME AND MONEY.
Would Mean the Abolition of Weeds. One of Farmers' Greatest Road Nuisances—United States Might Learn a Lesson From France.
There is rarely any necessity for allowing a greater breadth than twenty-five feet for the entire strip occupied by any country road, ditches included. In the residence districts of many of our great cities, where from fifty to a hundred feet were formerly given up to a broad, unsightly expanse of pavement apart from the sidewalks, the pavements that covered much of the width have been torn up and replaced by grass, leaving a roadway for vehicles often only twenty feet wide. Why should not a width which answers all purposes in the city answer also in the country?
We read much about the good roads of France, claimed to be the finest in the world. Yet Americans touring that country in automobiles are astonished to find that they are usually, including ditches, only twenty-five feet wide—often only twenty feet—the ad-

A VICTORIOUS BULGAR
By F. A. MITCHEL.
Eight years ago I, a globe trotter, having visited every other known part of the globe, concluded to have a look at the Balkans. The Balkan peninsula is seldom visited by tourists, so I found it difficult to secure information how to get there, but I persevered and finally reached Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria. From there I made excursions through the country, familiarizing myself with the people.
I found the Greek and the Bulgarian and the Christian the same as it had been for so many generations. The Bulgarians were then getting ready to rise against their masters, and the spirit of resistance was rising.
I was one evening at a small inn, where there were a number of Turks and Bulgarians in the same room playing cards, though the two races did not mingle in the same game. A conversation occurred in the Turkish language between a Bulgarian and a Turk sitting at different tables, which I did not understand, though I could see by their demeanor that they were at enmity. When the Turk had finished his game he left the inn accompanied by the other Turks. The Bulgarian went on playing for awhile; then he, too, left.
Curious to know what had been going on between these two, each of whom was a fine specimen of a man, I asked the host in German, since he spoke that language. He told me that the Turk was at the head of a band who had for some time made their headquarters in the town, terrorizing everybody in it and in the vicinity. They would make raids and return laden with plunder. Thus far no force of Christians had dared to drive them out. It seems that the Bulgarian had "brought" the Turk to fight him single handed. The Turk had, at first declined, but the Bulgarian had so goaded him that he had consented.
It had been agreed between them that they should meet the next morning. There was one main street in the place, running north and south. The Bulgarian was to start at a certain hour at one end of the street and the Turk at the other end. Each was to be armed with the short rifle used in the country, but which in this country would be called a carbine. Either could fire at the other on sight or whenever he pleased.
There was a feature of the affair of which I was not informed at the time. A number of Bulgarians had bound themselves to expel the Turkish robbers. It would be a great advantage to them to get rid of their leader before beginning the attack. The Bulgarian who had been selected to attempt this was famous for his marksmanship. It was hoped that he would succeed, and if he did there would be little difficulty in annihilating his men.
In the morning I arose at daylight and put my head out of the window. So far as I could see, the horses on either side of the street were lined up with heads at the windows to see the fight. It was not long before I saw at either end a distance of a mile apart, a single man in the middle of the street carrying his weapon. As soon as they saw each other they began to advance slowly, holding their weapons so as to bring the butt to the shoulder quickly. The Bulgarian wore the costume of his country, while the Turk wore the baggy trousers and sleeveless jacket in which he is usually pictured.
While the two men were drawing within range of each other I cast an occasional glance into the faces of those who were leaning out of the windows beside and opposite me. They were all Christians and on every face was intense anxiety. It was plain to see that their hope was in the man who was about to do battle for them. If he killed the other their oppressors might be exterminated; if the other killed him the yoke would be fastened on them firmer than ever. The issue might be decided by a single shot.
Before it seemed that they were within range the Bulgarian raised his rifle to his shoulder. If it was a ruse to induce his enemy to waste a shot he failed, for the Turk did not chance the position of his gun which he held close under his chin. The Christian, however, held his rifle at his shoulder, and as he now was much nearer to me than the Turk I could see by his face that he was calculating distance. But he was so far from his enemy that no one supposed that a bullet could be relied on to do its work at such a distance.
But suddenly his rifle cracked and a puff of smoke emanated from his muzzle. When I looked away from him to his enemy I saw him lying in the street. A Turk was running toward him in a moment he or his lifeless body for he had been shot through the head was encircled by every member of his band. From up the street near the fallen Turk came a whistle, and I saw shots fired from the windows at the robbers. The victorious Bulgarian ran by like a shot, and from houses about the street poured men who had bound themselves to annihilate the Turkish band.
It was a hard fight, in which a number of Christians were killed and wounded before the last robber was dispatched. Then the people of the town turned out into the street shouting, laughing, dancing, throwing up their caps and embracing one another while down the street, carried on the shoulders of his fellows, was the man who had rendered the victory possible.
That was the end of the Turkish band.

The Contract We Made For Hams
Has been extended to JULY 1st.
We will be able to continue selling the same high grade meat until that date.
at 18 cents per pound.
If you do not have enough smoked meat to last over the celebration, see us before that date. This price will only be good until that date.
REICHLE'S Butcher Shop.

You can have accommodations in Gettysburg during the Battle Anniversary
Board and Lodging $5, per day. In the shade, 7 minutes from the station, on sanitary road. 3 in a tent. First class accommodations and meals.
To secure, you must wire.

Care—Gettysburg Postoffice.

FIRE!!!
Do you have insurance enough to cover your property during the Celebration?
Better look over our policies at once and see if you are fully protected—If not, phone or call on G. C. Fissel and have him issue a policy at once.
Don't take any chances. Remember it is too late after a fire occurs to take out insurance.

Office with Runk & Peckman, Masonic Building, Gettysburg, Pa.

DOG MANGLES LITTLE GIRL
Breaks From Owner and Attacks the Child as She Leaves Water.
Atlantic City, N. J., June 30.—Attacked by a ferocious bulldog while bathing at Somers Point, Nettie Aydelette, twelve years old, was so mangled that it is feared she will die.
The dog, held in leash by John Charles, a playmate, attacked the girl as she left the surf, tearing loose from its youthful owner, and not until it was attacked with a base ball bat by Peter Schwartz did it release its grip on the child.
Suffering from terrible injuries extending from her left ankle to her waist, the girl was hurried to her home, where she was attended by Dr. Steelman, of Linwood. Her father procured a shotgun and killed the animal shortly afterward. The child's condition is precarious.
Printer to Get $500,000.
Pana, Ill., June 30.—Bert W. Brown, a Pana printer, received word that he would be given about $500,000 of an estate left by the late Mordcaï Price of Baltimore, when the estate is settled, on Aug. 14. Brown is one of the twenty-eight central Illinois heirs and a great-grandson of Price.
Rooster Attacks Babes.
South Norwalk, Conn., June 29.—Mabel, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grever Lent, of this place, was attacked and knocked down by a vicious rooster, and her brother one year her senior, who went to her rescue had one eye pecked out and the other one seriously injured.

The Weather.
Fair today and tomorrow; light variable winds.
An experiment that was made last year in the village of Miltonaie, Kan., is worth copying by others. Briefly the scheme referred to was a cooperative site, which was built jointly by six owners of single family cows. These householders, who prized fresh milk but despaired of getting it without using silage as a ration, hit upon the plan of joining hands in the enterprise. This was carried out, and a silo 12 by 14 feet was built and corn from a nearby field hauled to fill it. The backers of the enterprise after one season's experience believe they have solved the feed problem for the dairy cow so far as they are concerned. This year they plan to co-operate in the growing of the corn they need for silage purposes. Why isn't this plan good for other folks?

GOOD TYPE OF THE WIDE ROAD
joining farms being cultivated close up to the line. Why not learn a lesson from France?
A road sixty-six feet wide represents the appropriation of one acre of land for every 660 linear feet of road, or eight acres to the mile. A road twenty-five feet wide, on the other hand, requires only one acre for every 1,742 linear feet of road, or about 3.03 acres to the mile. Here is a saving of nearly five acres of land, worth from $20 to $150 an acre, by the adoption of the narrower width. It is only where deep cuts or high embankments occur or in crossing swamps that a greater width than twenty-five feet is necessary, and it by no means follows that because the strip is wider at such points it should be wider for its whole length.
The saving in the cost of construction by adopting a width of twenty-five instead of sixty-six feet, would not be proportionately as great as the saving in land, but it would probably be at least 20 or 25 per cent, and the saving in the cost of maintenance would be very nearly or quite one-half. This would mean a tremendous reduction in road taxes.
Added to these gains is another, by no means to be despised when considering the advantages of the twenty-five foot road. This would come from the elimination of the highway as a breeding ground for weeds. The wide twenty-five feet being improved, there would be no space left for weeds, and a perennial nuisance, costly to the whole farming community, would be abolished.—Agricultural Magazine
Cumulative Value of Good Highways.
Improved roads are breeders of traffic. Commerce invariably follows the line of the least resistance, and rarely is a good road constructed that much travel is not diverted to it from other courses. In addition to this, it may almost invariably be found that new industries, new and greater productions, spring up along the well built roads. With the added commerce comes added enlightenment, added stability, enlarged business and more and more developed and perfected citizenship.
Progress In Argentina.
The Argentine Touring Club has decided to award a special gold medal annually to the landowner in the province of Buenos Aires who plants the most trees at the sides of the public highways. The trees may be fruit or forestal, and instructions and advice concerning planting may be had from the Touring Club.
The Dog In The Manger.
The incompetent, shiftless, worthless political road official is the fellow who opposes better road legislation. If he manages to hold such a position then why can't he think, study and qualify himself under a new road law and be a man? Conversions along this line can occur in warm as well as cold weather.

Feed For Nursing Sows.
The fastest and cheapest gains are made on a pig before weaning time, so ordinarily it will pay to keep young pigs coming. The sow should, of course, get some good milk producing feed. Bran, ship stuff some corn, alfalfa meal, linseed oil meal and skim milk are all good. As far as cheapness of feed goes, corn and linseed oil meal or corn and tinnage are two rations as good as any. The following ration has given very good results: Shorts, 25 per cent; corn meal, 40 per cent; bran, 25 per cent; tankage, 10 per cent.

CAPT. SHIPP HERE

Quartermaster-General of United Confederate Veterans Here.

One of the prominent ex-Confederates attending the reunion is Capt.
J. F. Shipp, of Chattanooga, Tenn.
Capt. Shipp is quartermaster-general of the United Confederate Veterans' Association, and a man of
much influence in his home city.
For twenty-five years he has taken
an active interest in the affairs of the U. C. V. and is now a member of the General Executive committee of the Chattanooga G. A. R. Encampment Association. The Grand Army
of the Republic holds its annual encampment this year at Chattanooga,
the dates being Sept. 15-20, the anniversary of the battle of Chica-
mauga. Capt. Shipp comes to Gettysburg as a representative of the committee in charge of the plans for entertaining the encampment, and
also as a delegate from Forrest
Camp, U. C. V., of Chattanooga.
While here he will confer with the officials of the G. A. R. in regard to the Chattanooga encampment. Chattanooga is now a city of more than 100,000 population, and is making elaborate preparations to receive the veterans of the North, having just
entertained the Confederate reunion
that drew more than a hundred thousand veterans and visitors to the city.

SUNDAY SERVICE

The Presbyterian Church was
crowded to its limits Sunday morning.
The handsome flag presented to the Sunday School by the Women's Relief
Corps last Wednesday stood in the pew occupied by President Lincoln and John Burns at a meeting held in the church on the day the great President delivered his Gettysburg speech
in dedicating the National Cemetery.
The sermon by Rev. F. E. Taylor
was on "The Battle of Gettysburg and Fifty Years After."

At 7:30 Rev. James McAllister
presented in strong terms the claims
upon America of Latin America, and especially Porto Rico, where he is a missionary.

A most interesting address followed, delivered by Rev. S. F. Tenney, of Texas. Mr. Tenney enlisted in the Confederate Army from Georgia and fought in this battle. For forty years
he has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Crockett, Texas. His address was heartily received by the boys in blue and grey and khaki
present.

PERSONAL NOTES AND BRIEF ITEMS

Paragraphs of News Telling of the Happenings in and about Town.
People Visiting Here and Those
Sojourning Elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lark, of Mimers-
burg, Pa.; Mrs. W. J. Gies and son,
James, of New York, and Mr. and
Mrs. John W. Fisher, of Elmdale, Pa.,
are guests of Mrs. J. W. Richard,
Springs Avenue, during the celebration this week.

T. C. Lenier, Jr., of Salisbury, N.
C., is visiting at the home of Mr. and
Mrs. J. L. Butt, on Carlisle street.
Guyon Kitzmiller, wife and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Elizabeth
Sachs, of Baltimore, are visiting H.
Edwin Plank and family.

Miss Catharine Schultz, of Baltimore, is spending several weeks at the home of her uncle, Harry Roddy
and family.

Mrs. Sarah Burbank and Mrs. Annie
Martin, of Pittsburgh; Miss Sarah
Seavey, of Sharpsburg; Mr. and Mrs.
John Kerner, of Harrisburg; and Mr.
and Mrs. Elmer Plank and son, Cyril,
of Hagerstown, are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. G. Daniel Plank.

Dr. H. L. Mannerbeck was arrested
here on Sunday by Charles H. Wilson
for a Reading constable, who wanted
him for having jumped $300 bail.

Misses Anna Collins, Catherine
Quinn, Clare Planagan and Mary
Kelley, of Harrisburg, are spending
some time with friends in town.

The cavalry stationed about the battlefield misunderstood orders regarding the enforcement of traffic
regulations and on Sunday pre-vented
people from turning off the avenues
to the public roads. They have been informed of their mistake and it is now possible to leave the battlefield
roads at any place to take the highways not under the control of the commission.

CADETS AT OXFORD

York Cadets Enjoying Camp Life in
New Oxford.

The York Cadets pitched camp upon
the field opposite the baseball grounds
at New Oxford Saturday, and will en-
camp there until Sunday evening,
July 6th. The camp is named "Camp
W. H. Lanier," in honor of the late
Capt. Lanier, a member of Co. I, 87th
Reg't, Penn'a Vols. Captain Lanier
was an honorary member of the organization, and one of its strongest
advocates.

The officers are: Captain, Wilbur
C. Kraber; Lieutenant, Samuel H.
Ensminger.

NO PARCEL STAMPS

Ordinary Postage Stamps to Displace
Parcel Stamps.

On and after July 1st ordinary postage stamps may be used on parcel
post matter, and parcel post stamps
will be valid on ordinary postal matter. The parcel post stamps will be done away with the present supply
to be sold until exhausted.

This was the order received this morning by Postmaster Beales from
the Post Office Department at Washington. The order is as follows:

On and after July 1, 1913, ordinary
postage stamps, including commemorative issues, shall be valid for postage
on fourth-class mail matter (parcel post) and for insurance and collect-
on-delivery fees on parcel post mail,
and distinctive parcel post stamps
shall be valid for all purposes for which ordinary stamps are valid.

The present supply of parcel post
stamps will be sold to the public until exhausted, and after that time only
the ordinary issue of stamps will be sold. It should be clearly understood that postage stamps of either series
will be accepted as payment for postage of the kind of mail matter to which they are attached.

PEACE BANNER

Unique Banner Will Appear in Big
Camp.

Probably one of the most unique banners that will appear at the Gettysburg reunion has been dispatched
to be placed before the quarters of the Manassas Pickett Post, G. A. R., and Ewell Camp, C. V. The banner, which is commemorative of the peace jubilee
on the battlefield of Bull Run in July,
1911, at which celebration President
Taft delivered the personal address,
displays the Confederate flag on one side and the Stars and Stripes on the other. In addition there appear
the inscription, "Let Us Have Peace—
Grant," and "Duty is the Sublimest
Word in any Language—Lee." A special guard of honor, composed of veterans from both sides, will care for the flag.

COMMENCE WORK

Start Operations on Hunterstown's
New Sanitarium.

Work has been commenced on the large sanitarium building to be erected by the Goldsborough sisters near Hunterstown, an account of which appeared in this paper some time ago.
The building is to be of cement blocks,
and H. W. Felty, of New Oxford, who has contracted to furnish the same has
the material shipped to Granite Hill
and manufactures the blocks at the site of the new building.

BAND CONCERTS

Town People Have Opportunity of Hearing Good Concerts.

Sunday evening a sacred concert
was given on the College Campus by
the Third Regiment band. Other concerts are scheduled for the week, the
one this evening being by the Eighth Regiment band, of Carlisle.

The Fifteenth Cavalry Band will give concerts each evening from 6 to 7 o'clock at their camp west of Seminary Ridge. Guard mount is held
each morning at 11:30.

YOUNGEST VETERAN

Youngest Civil War Soldier in the Country is Here.

W. K. Benjamin, past commander
of Post 1, Rochester, N. Y., who served in Co. A, 50th N. Y. Engineers,
and who claims to be the youngest
veteran alive, came in with his post
Sunday. Mr. Benjamin is sixty-five years old. He enlisted in February, 1863, at the age of thirteen years and
ten months. He states that this claim
of being the youngest veteran is frequently disputed when made publicly,
but, upon investigation, has always
been substantiated.

BROUGHT 20,432

The Reading brought in 14,965
passengers on twenty-one trains on Sunday; the Western Maryland seventeen trains with 5,467, a total of 20-432 the first day. The Reading has removed its embargo on freight.
Hundreds of automobile parties visited the town.

YOUR ANNIVERSARY CLOTHES

Should be just right. Thousands of well dressed people will be here and you will want to look your best, which means that you must buy clothes of—STYLE, FIT and QUALITY—which you are always sure to get at "The Home of Fine Clothes."

Let us show you some of the new things either in Ladies' or Men's wear.

We are offering you for the balance of this week an opportunity to buy certain goods at a reduction, probably just the things you need. Come in and look them over, not enough room here to list them.

BELOW JUST A FEW SUGGESTIONS

Ladies' Department

Great sale of White Lingerie
Waists at 89c were $1 and $1.25.
Silk Waists at $1 85.

Muslin Underwear

What we offer you for the money
in Princess slips, gowns corset covers, undershirts, combination suits, etc.,
cannot be duplicated anywhere—let us prove this to you.

Special Sale of combination suits
that were $1 and $1.25, now 89c.
Great line of $1 white undershirts
at 89c, others from 45c up.

Dresses Dresses

Not enough room to describe this immense line, but we have them, all kinds and all sizes, from baby to grandmother.

Just a few Coat Suits left and you can have them from ¼ to ½ reduction.

Men's Department

Boy's Suits. Here is your chance to save money on that boy's suit you have been going to buy. Why not get it now when you can save 10 per cent. Just think, any boy's suit in the store, less 10 per cent. They are here in Serges, Cassimeres, Worsteds, in a variety of patterns.

MEN'S and YOUNG MEN'S light, breezy summer coats, are here galore in Alpaca, Serge and Mohair. Just in, a new lot $5.30 and they are beautiful, if you are looking for summer comfort, here it is.

Here are a few suggestions of what you may need over the anniversary. Ladies' and Men's white and colored aprons, white duck coats. Shirts of every description. White kitchen caps. Separate trousers for boys. Ladies' and Men's dusters, here is one of our young men and men's specialties, where you always get a little better quality than elsewhere.

Men's Suits

Throughout the men's and young Men's stock, you will find bargains. In many cases there are just one or two of a kind that you can buy at a price that will astonish. We sell and guarantee only good clothes. Clothes that can be depended on for style, fit and quality. Better come in to-day and let us show you the advantage of buying Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Alco or Kuppenheimer Clothes.

Time suggests a trip to our furnishings department where we feel sure we can please you with our well known line of furnishings such as Idle Collars, Clement Shirts, B. V. D. or Porous Knit Underwear, Esco Hosiery, Straw Hats, Separate Trousers or shoes. We will show you only new, up-to-date, reliable togethery.

Capt. Shipp is quartermaster-general of the United Confederate Veterans' Association, and a man of
much influence in his home city.
For twenty-five years he has taken
an active interest in the affairs of the U. C. V. and is now a member of the General Executive committee of
the Chattanooga G. A. R. Encamp-
ment Association. The Grand Army
of the Republic holds its annual encampment this year at Chattanooga,
the dates being Sept. 15-20, the anniversary of the battle of Chica-
mauga. Capt. Shipp comes to Gettysburg as a representative of the committee in charge of the plans for
entertaining the encampment, and
also as a delegate from Forrest
Camp, U. C. V., of Chattanooga.
While here he will confer with the officials of the G. A. R. in regard to the Chattanooga encampment. Chat-
tanooga is now a city of more than 100,000 population, and is making
elaborate preparations to receive the
veterans of the North, having just
entertained the Confederate reunion
that drew more than a hundred thousand veterans and visitors to
the city.

SUNDAY SERVICE

The Presbyterian Church was
crowded to its limits Sunday morning.
The handsome flag presented to the
Sunday School by the Women's Relief
Corps last Wednesday stood in the
pew occupied by President Lincoln and John Burges at a meeting held in the church on the day the great President delivered his Gettysburg speech,
in dedicating the National Cemetery.
The sermon by Rev. F. E. Taylor
was on "The Battle of Gettysburg and Fifty Years After."

At 7:30 Rev. James McAllister
presented in strong terms the claims
upon America of Latin America, and especially Porto Rico, where he is a
missionary.

A most interesting address followed, delivered by Rev. S. F. Tenney,
of Texas. Mr. Tenney enlisted in the Confederate Army from Georgia and
fought in this battle. For forty years
he has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Crockett, Texas. His address was heartily received by the boys in blue and grey and khaki
present.

PERSONAL NOTES AND BRIEF ITEMS

Paragraphs of News Telling of the Happenings in and about Town.
People Visiting Here and Those
Sojourning Elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lark, of Millers-
burg, Pa.; Mrs. W. J. Gies and son,
James, of New York, and Mr. and
Mrs. John W. Fisher, of Elmdale, Pa.,
are guests of Mrs. J. W. Richard,
Springs Avenue, during the celebration this week.

T. C. Lenier, Jr., of Salisbury, N.
C., is visiting at the home of Mr. and
Mrs. J. L. Butt, on Carlisle street.
Guyon Kitzmiller, wife and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Elizabeth
Sachs, of Baltimore, are visiting H.
Edwin Plank and family.

Miss Catharine Schultz, of Baltimore, is spending several weeks at
the home of her uncle, Harry Roddy
and family.

Mrs. Sarah Burbank and Mrs. Annie
Martin, of Pittsburgh; Miss Sarah
Seavey, of Sharpsburg; Mr. and Mrs.
John Kerner, of Harrisburg; and Mr.
and Mrs. Elmer Plank and son, Cyril,
of Hagerstown, are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. G. Daniel
Plank.

Dr. H. L. Mannerbeck was arrested
here on Sunday by Charles H. Wilson
for a Reading constable, who wanted
him for having jumped $300 bail.

Misses Anna Collins, Catherine
Quinn, Clare Flanagan and Mary
Kelley, of Harrisburg, are spending
some time with friends in town.

The cavalry stationed about the
battlefield misunderstood orders regarding the enforcement of traffic
regulations and on Sunday prevented
people from turning off the avenues
to the public roads. They have been informed of their mistake and it is
now possible to leave the battlefield
roads at any place to take the highways not under the control of the commission.

CADETS AT OXFORD

York Cadets Enjoying Camp Life in
New Oxford.

The York Cadets pitched camp upon
the field opposite the baseball grounds
at New Oxford Saturday, and will en-
camp there until Sunday evening,
July 6th. The camp is named "Camp
W. H. Lanier" in honor of the late
Capt. Lanier, a member of Co. I, 87th
Reg't, Penn'a. Vols. Captain Lanier
was an honorary member of the organization, and one of its strongest
advocates.

The officers are: Captain, Wilbur
C. Kraber; Lieutenant, Samuel H.
Emsminger.

NO PARCEL STAMPS

Ordinary Postage Stamps to Displace
Parcel Stamps.

On and after July 1st ordinary postage stamps may be used on parcel
post-matter, and parcel post stamps
will be valid on ordinary postal matter. The parcel post stamps will be done away with the present supply
to be sold until exhausted.

This was the order received this morning by Postmaster Beales from
the Post Office Department at Washington. The order is as follows:

On and after July 1, 1913, ordinary
postage stamps, including commemorative issues, shall be valid for postage
on fourth-class mail matter (parcel
post) and for insurance and collect-
on-delivery fees on parcel post mail,
and distinctive parcel-post stamps
shall be valid for all purposes for
which ordinary stamps are valid.

The present supply of parcel post
stamps will be sold to the public until
exhausted, and after that time only
the ordinary issue of stamps will be sold. It should be clearly understood
that postage stamps of either series
will be accepted as payment for postage of the kind of mail matter to
which they are attached.

PEACE BANNER

Unique Banner Will Appear in Big
Camp.

Probably one of the most unique banners that will appear at the Gettysburg reunion has been dispatched
to be placed before the quarters of the Manassas Picket Post, G. A. R., and Ewell Camp, C. V. The banner, which
is commemorative of the peace jubilee
on the battlefield of Bull Run in July,
1911, at which celebration President
Taft delivered the personal address,
displays the Confederate flag on one side and the Stars and Stripes on
the other. In addition there appear
the inscription, "Let Us Have Peace—
Grant," and "Duty is the Sublimest
Word in any Language—Lee." A
special guard of honor, composed of veterans from both sides, will care for
the flag.

COMMENCE WORK

Start Operations on Hunterstown's
New Sanitarium.

Work has been commenced on the
large sanitarium building to be erected by the Goldsborough sisters near Hunterstown, an account of which appeared in this paper some time ago.
The building is to be of cement blocks,
and H. W. Feltz, of New Oxford, who
has contracted to furnish the same has
the material shipped to Granite Hill
and manufactures the blocks at the site of the new building.

BAND CONCERTS

Town People Have Opportunity of Hearing Good Concerts.

Sunday evening a sacred concert
was given on the College Campus by
the Third Regiment band. Other concerts are scheduled for the week, the
one this evening being by the Eighth
Regiment band, of Carlisle.

The Fifteenth Cavalry Band will
give concerts each evening from 6 to 7 o'clock at their camp west of Seminary Ridge. Guard mount is held
each morning at 11:30.

YOUNGEST VETERAN

Youngest Civil War Soldier in the Country is Here.

W. K. Benjamin, past commander
of Post 1, Rochester, -N. Y., who served in Co. A, 50th N. Y. Engineers,
and who claims to be the youngest
veteran alive, came in with his post
Sunday. Mr. Benjamin is sixty-five years old. He enlisted in February, 1863, at the age of thirteen years and
ten months. He states that this claim
of being the youngest veteran is frequently disputed when made publicly,
but, upon investigation, has always
been substantiated.

BROUGHT 20,432

Two Roads Unload Hosts of People in Camp and Town.

The Reading brought in 14,455
passengers on twenty-one trains on Sunday; the Western Maryland seventeen trains with 5,467, a total of 20-432 the first day. The Reading has
removed its embargo on freight.
Hundreds of automobile parties visited the town.
